March CAPTAIN GLEMHAM'S EXPLOITS

News is come to London of the safety and exploits of Captain Edward Glemham who had been reported lost at sea in a fight with the Spaniards

Edward Glemham, Esquire, of Benhall in Suffolk, set sail in August last in the Edward and Constance of the burden of 240 tons, and one pinnace, the Falcon, which alone at his own cost, he had equipped, furnished, and victualled in such sort and with such plenty as had seldom been known before From Dover he shaped his course for the Islands of the Suryes and Canaries, leaving his pinnace at Dover for the repairing of some small fault which had appeared, but through the negligence of her master he never saw her again Contrary winds drove them out of their course for two months, till, at the end of November, he returned to the Islands, having done little good, but being loath to return home without achieving some notable exploit for the honour of his country and the profit of his men, he resolved to land on St George's Island

Calling his company together and taking counsel with them he found them willing to follow him So the long boat and the carvel were hauled up alongside, into which entered eighty-five men, sixty being musketeers, the rest armed with pikes or brown bills

The watch of the island, seeing so large a company draw near, had given warning and the whole force of the island was ready to receive them when they should attempt a landing But the gunner letting fly on them from the ship from a sacer charged with a chain, slew or dismembered ten or twelve of them, and continued to play upon them so that, after two hours' fight, the Spaniards sounded a retreat and fled with all speed into the high country, leaving our men to land with the loss of but two killed
